Honoring Anne

The second annual fashion show and fundraiser, Inside Anne's Closet, honoring the memory of local fashion maven Anne Paye who lost her battle with colorectal cancer in June 2013, will take place on June 1.

For those who reside on the Peninsula or are involved with Stanford Athletics, the name Anne M. Paye conjures up the vision of a beautiful, fashion-forward, smart, energetic, athletic, and generous woman who enjoyed life to its fullest. Her own was cut short by a battle with colorectal cancer (CRC). To honor her life and put a spotlight on a disease that many of us find uncomfortable to discuss, Paye's family and friends are launching a major fundraising effort this month.

Football legend John Paye (Anne's son and former San Francisco 49er) and Sarah Harbaugh (who lost her own brother to CRC) are co-chairing this special event (June 1) that will be held at Rosewood Sand Hill. Anne was known for her sense of style, so fittingly, the event, titled "Inside Anne's Closet," will include a gallery-style showcase of Anne's vintage fashions and a spectacular fashion show courtesy of Bloomingdale's with celebrities and celebrity athlete models. The event will benefit the Colon Cancer Alliance's awareness, research, and screening efforts. For tickets, please call 650.364.5050. ♦
